LBJ Antipoverty Bill Passes House Test, Heads For Senate

Getting unexpectedly strong support from Southern Democrats and Republicans, President Lyndon B. Johnson's prize legislative package, the $947.5 million antipoverty bill, passed through the House Saturday on a 226-184 roll-call vote. The 42-vote victory margin widely exceeded the predictions of House leaders, who had worked for weeks to line up votes and looked for a slim 10-vote edge.

The Southerners provided nearly 60 votes and the GOP chipped in 22. Forty Democrats voted with 144 Republicans against the bill.

Five of Kentucky's seven representatives voted for the bill. Rep. M. Gene Synder, R-Ky., voted against the measure. Republican Eugene Siler did not vote, but was recorded as in favor of the bill.

Voting in person for the measure were Kentucky Democrats Frank Chelf, William Natcher, Carl Perkins, John Watts, and Frank Stubblefield.

The bill, which now goes back to the Senate, seeks to mobilize federal, state and local resources into an attack on the causes of poverty, in which an estimated nine million American families are mired.

The Senate has passed an almost identical measure, but two changes made by the House may prove troublesome in getting the Senate to accept the House version without further delaying its final passage.

One would give governors the right to reject federal grants to all community groups seeking to mount a local campaign against poverty. The Senate had restricted the governors' veto power to grants to private agencies.

Both bills let the governors veto the establishment of conservation-type camps for idle youths in their states.

The other change would require a loyalty oath for all those participating in the many programs authorized by the bill. It was proposed by Rep. John Bell Williams, D-Miss., and put in by a nonrecord vote of 144-112.

Sargent Shriver, who will be named director of the Office of Economic Opportunity created by the bill to coordinate its many programs, said it showed that "once again America has become a land of opportunity for all citizens—regardless of race, color or creed."

Shriver said the programs of fer opportunity, not cash handouts.

Will Be Sharing

"We're not taking cash from the rich to give to the poor," he said in his statement. "We're going to be sharing what most of us have—the chance to do our best. We're going to be sharing that with all Americans."

Economic opportunity is the key to the programs authorized by the bill. Their aim is to help poor families, especially the young members and training that will give them a chance to earn their own way instead of living on relief payments.

The bill's major provisions call for:

A 40,000 member Job Corps, composed of young men and women, 16 to 22, who will be taken from unfavorable environments and placed in camps patterned on the Old Civilian Conservation Corps.

For 200,000 Youths

A worktraining program designed to give 200,000 youths useful work experience by making public service jobs available in parks, schools, hospitals and other public facilities.

A work and study program designed to provide part-time jobs to permit 120,000 college students to remain at their studies.

The bill also would authorize federal grants to community agencies in an effort to stimulate local programs to combat poverty, and make long-term, low-interest loans to low-income rural families and small businessmen in hopes of raising their earning levels.

On Regional Basis

Another bill aimed at poverty—only this time on a regional, rather than a national basis—also is before Congress.

It is the $1,077,200,000 program for Appalachia—the 10-state region stretching from Pennsylvania to Alabama.

Many members from that area were warned there would be no Appalachia bill passed if the antipoverty bill were killed, and this is believed to have swung votes for the national program.

The Appalachia bill has had a rough road through the House Public Works Committee, however, and House leaders may find it difficult to push it through now that a nationwide program has been passed.

The Senate Public Works Committee cleared the Appalachia bill Friday.

The Face Of A Town

By Ben Fitzpatrick

After being in Hazard a few days, I tried to transfer my national auto insurance policy up here. I was most surprised when the phone book listed no national insurance companies, only home-grown ones.

A phone call to the State Farm office in Lexington clarified the situation. I was told no national insurance company could afford to operate an office in Hazard because the accident rate was too high.

Thus forewarned, I carefully noted the driving habits of Perry Countians the past three weeks, and reasons for the insurance companies' apprehensions became readily understandable.

In no other part of the country have I encountered as many rude, inconsiderate, and dangerous drivers as in this area. All of you know what I mean—How many times has a car darted out in front of you from a side street or parking place, then to heighten the danger of such a deed, slow to a crawl just as soon as they straighten out?

How many times have you pulled out to pass a slow-moving vehicle, only to have the imbecile floorboard when you pull even? How many times has a car, without signal, braked and chugged off the road?

Many of the cars in Perry County could not pass a simple safety inspection. In fact, in some areas, the flow of traffic looks like a moving junkyard. It does not matter what can or cannot be afforded. The fact is these rolling heaps, these potential death traps, should not be allowed on the road unless they can pass a safety inspection; and that is up to the state police.

It would seem only fitting if Gov. Breathitt's new get-tough campaign on drivers started right here in Perry County, to get some of these inept drivers off the road. That brand new maxim, "just because you have a driver's license, it doesn't mean you can drive," applies more to Perry County than it should.

Judge Don Ward's decision ruling the Wabaco annexation ordinance valid was most gratifying. It is unusual for a county to have such a fair, honest, and distinguished person as Circuit Judge, and speaks well for foresight and wisdom of those who voted for him.

Speaking of the Wabaco annexation, the purpose of the protest against annexation escapes me, though the reasoning behind it has been explained to me. It seems ludicrous that those people did not want to be a part of Hazard, but then I don't guess everyone can share my pride in our community.

Noting that football season is almost here, I jogged, rolled might be a better word, up to Collin's Field and watched the Alma Mater shed some sweat. Collin's Field is still the "rock".

Year in and out, Hazard has a first class football team but are relegated to playing on a third class field, a rockpile at that. It must be just as easy on the body to be tackled on black-top.

That slab of yellow dirt has defied every means of grassing in the past. Wonder how they grow dirt on other football fields?

Kudos and Roses to all those who helped make this past baseball season a rousing success, especially for those many youngsters who participated in the three leagues. Special Plaudits must go to the President of the Leagues, Bill Craft and to the all-star managers, Shoekey Bowling, Clarence "Gal" Gallagher, Cokie Cox, and Joe Wells. The youth of Perry County must be appreciative of the job these men have done for them.

Off-Set Printing Project Scheduled

A project to train Off-Set Printing Press Operators has been approved and is now in progress in Glasgow, Kentucky.

Project manager, Oren L. Doyle, reports that there are several openings in this class for trainees.

All training expenses are paid by the Federal Government to the extent of $44 per week while taking the instruction plus subsistence and/or transportation.

People who are unemployed or underemployed and are head of a household and have had two years work experience, or are a member of farm family whose net family income is $1,200 or less per year qualify for this training.

A Sign Of The Times

Wonder how the above combination of signs will affect the U. S. Naval recruiting program in Hazard? Their recruiting pastor, showing a graduate and a navy enlistee, asks for graduates to "go Navy," but right under this disclaimer another sign warns "keep out." This coincidental linking of signs was spied at the courthouse construction site.

Yawning Hole Tells The Story

Stephen Foster Story Closes September 6th

The success of this year's STEPHEN FOSTER STORY, now crowding its closing date of September 6th, has prompted the announcement of next season's opening date. The Board of Trustees of the Stephen Foster Drama Association, meeting at the amphitheatre in Bardonia, Ky., have set next year's opening night for June 19, 1965.

Lacking five weeks of finishing its sixth season as a nationally known outdoor drama, THE STEPHEN FOSTER STORY has already made its impact on the theatre world. Through the years many of its cast members have gone on to take their places as actors, singers, directors or producers in the professional theatre.

The instigation, this season, of an apprentice program will go a long way towards providing practical disciplined stage experience for dozens of young people from the high schools, colleges and music schools of the nation. The apprentice program not only puts youngsters under the guidance of an experienced director, but builds confidence by putting them into the active cast of a large outdoor production.

During the three week rehearsal period, and the ten weeks of performance, the apprentice is coached by the director and has a chance to work with and observe veteran actors and singers. The neophytes attend classes in make-up, acting, choral music and various technical phases of the stage.

At the seasons end they put together a special show, to be performed before a large audience for the benefit of a local charity. It is the consensus of opinion that this program will continue to grow and improve to the mutual benefit of all.

Since its beginning, as a dream in the minds of the community conscious people of Bardonia, THE STEPHEN FOSTER STORY has played to thousands of visitors from all over the United States and many foreign countries, including the Soviet Union. The Foster Story has set a pattern of pride, enthusiasm and dedication that has become a trademark throughout the show.

The American College Test will be given to all new students on August 25 at 8:00 a. m.

Maple Street Church Of God Closes Vacation Bible School

The Maple Street Church of God Vacation Bible School, which was conducted for six evenings at the Church was considered a success by the twenty teachers. The theme of the VBS was "Jesus, The Promised Savior."

The classrooms, working area and all space was filled as an average of 120 attended nightly for the sessions which had planned classes from nursery to adults.

Mrs. J. C. Dudley, Director, announced her "absolute satisfaction" of the school's results. "We were overwhelmed at the registry of the first evening, which was more than we anticipated for the first evening, and it kept growing until the peak was reached for one evening with 165 attending," said Mrs. Dudley.

Each class had to have divided sessions and new split classes set up and more workers recruited as the attendance kept climbing.

Along with Bible lessons on the theme, handicrafts for every department were provided which proved a favorite with all the scholars.

The pastor, J. C. Dudley, served as Bible School Evangelist, appealing to youth to "Commit your lives to the Savior." Many youths came forward kneeling at the altar for prayer.

Workers leading the school were Homer Fagundes, Frank Adams, Charles Collins, Jean Adams, Peggy Collins, Rachel Fagundes, Fay Seals, Edna Pendleton, Alva Banks, Eileen Sammons, Pansy Dixon, Mrs. Curry, the pastor and Mrs. Dudley.

Graduation evening was an impressive service as the work of the youth was on display. The handicraft was the main feature.

Certificates were presented to the youth elected David Benton, Mr. V.B.S. and Patricia Oliver, Miss V.B.S. The Nursery workers selected little

Kiwanians Make Trip to Manchester Thurs., August 6

A group of eight Hazard Kiwanians made a trip to Manchester, Kentucky on Thursday, August 6th, in the evening where they had an inter-club meeting with the Manchester Kiwanis Club.

Alva Hollon was the speaker for the local club. He gave a report on a recent visit to the state of California in connection with a Baptist Church Revival at that place.

He contrasted the difference in the welcome persons receive there with that in Eastern Kentucky. He stated the welcome in Eastern Kentucky is far more congenial than that in the far west, where they were not even invited to enter in many instances.

Good fellowship was had between the members of the Manchester Club and the Hazard Club and points of interest common to both clubs were discussed with profit and enlightenment to all.

Attending from Hazard were George Pendleton, Frank Baker, Alva Hollon, Harold Green, Nis Combs, C. B. Caudill, I. A. Bowles and J. F. Brophy.

Students transferring from the Community College to the University of Kentucky main campus will have the opportunity to register before all other University of Kentucky students according to a memorandum from Edsel T. Godbey, Assistant Dean of the Community College System.

Previously transfer students the new schedule which is so favorable for juniors who have transferred from the community colleges. "It is quite obvious that this system is an extremely desirable one . . . This arrangement is one almost too being first in line at the registration."

This procedure will be used for this year's registration. All community college students transferring to Lexington will be asked to check into their dormitories on Monday morning, August 31.

At 12:45 all students are to report to the Memorial Coliseum. A very brief orientation and classification session will follow. It is expected that all student guides and assistants will be former community college students.

At 2 o'clock that afternoon, the students will be taken to meet their own individual deans. At this time, each student will be assigned an advisor and his schedule will be prepared.

The following morning, Tuesday, September 1, will be devoted to registration. All community college transfers who have gone through the prescribed processing procedure the previous day will be allowed to use a special entrance to the Memorial Coliseum for early registration. These students will not register in the normal alphabetical sequence but will be processed early Tuesday morning, which is the first day of the two-day registration period.

On Wednesday, September 2, the remainder of the registration activities will be carried out. These activities include a physical examination for those who require it and a meeting with representatives from the office of the Dean of Men or Dean of Women.

Mrs. Betty Jane Smith

Mrs. Betty Smith, 89, Thankful For Good Health and Blessings

Autobiography of

BETTY JANE SMITH, AGE 89

(Written by her children, and submitted to The Hazard Herald by Mrs. Ila S. Caton, Hazard, Kentucky, on August 1, 1964).

As I near my 90th birthday, I feel that I can be most thankful for the good physical and mental health with which I have been blessed for the greater part of my life.

By present day standards it has not been an easy life. It has been a life more like that of my pioneering ancestors—a life, with its share of sorrow, sustained by hard work to help raise my families and give them a better education than I had.

I was born December 23, 1874, on Spring Branch near the head of Carr's Fork, which was at that time a part of Letcher County but which became a part of Knott County in 1884. My father was Emory B. Smith, son of William B. and Betty (Childers) Smith, who had migrated from Russell County, Virginia, about 1825. My mother was Susan Amburgey, daughter of Ambrose and Rebecca (Francis) Amburgey, who also came to Eastern Kentucky from Russell County, Virginia, a few years earlier.

Being a member of a mountain family of twelve children, dependent on a small farm for its livelihood, I learned early to contribute to the family's upkeep with weaving, knitting, sewing, farming, cooking and preserving food. Being one of three sisters in a family of nine brothers, this meant weaving for men's jeans and blankets as well as for our dresses. And before the advent of the "Mason jar", this meant preserving our winter food by pickling and drying. Wooden, 60-gallon pickling stands, made by my father, were commonplace in my early life. Pickled corn and beans, or sulphured apples, taste mighty good to me today, when I can get them.

During my childhood educational opportunities were very limited. Even though an education for girls was not considered as essential, I did receive some formal schooling—about the equivalent of the third grade, I guess. I remember that the school term was about three months in length, held in late summer and fall, and that two of my teachers were Martha Ann Everidge and Billy Thomas.

I liked school, and learned enough reading, writing, arithmetic and spelling to build on through practical application. This knowledge served me well in later life, when at times I ran a farm, served as community postmaster, kept store and wrote to my children, at school or living elsewhere. I cannot read or write now because my eyesight is failing, but I wrote to one of my daughters as late as 1961 when she was in school at the University of North Carolina. She tells me that she has kept some of those letters.

At the age of 21 I married Hiram H. Stamper, son of Jas. P. and Elizabeth (Francis) Stamper, and went to live with him and his parents at the old homestead, which still stands at the mouth of Smith's Branch on Carr Creek. This farm, after almost seventy years, is still "my home", although I spend most of my time with my daughter Ila in Hazard. On a hot summer day, like some we have been having lately, the part of the farm house which was made of logs more than a century ago is a cool retreat. I also like to go to the old well for a cool retreat. I also like to go to the old well for a cool drink of water. I always say, "It's the best water in the world."

Prior to his death in 1903, my first husband and I had four children. My eldest son, Oliver, is a lawyer in Cleveland. He and his wife, Susan Applegate from New Jersey, have two children and five grandchildren. My daughter, Ila (Stamper) Caton, whose husband Frank, of Knoxville, was killed in an auto accident in Georgia in 1938, has one daughter and three grandchildren. Ila is a retired bookkeeper, but now works part-time for the local Red Cross. One of my sons died from diphtheria when he was a year old. Another, Hiram Vernon, died in 1930, at the age of 28, following an automobile accident near Lexington.

After living as a widow for several years, I married again. My second husband was John Banks, son of Elijah and Betty (Burton) Banks of Letcher County. We had three children—Alta, who works for the State Department of Health as a public health educator; Delmas, who married Alma Hays of Carr Creek and has seven children; Zelma, who married Earl Mullins, and has eight children and four grandchildren. Delmas runs a farm and operates a mining business on Carr Creek. Zelma lives near Hindman and works as a housewife.

Both of my husbands were school teachers at some time in their life, but also did farming, storekeeping or other occupations to make a living. All of my children attended Hindman Settlement School. One or two of them left home as early as 9 years of age to stay in the dormitory there. Two of them later graduated from Carr Creek High School, instead of Hindman, since this was nearer home. My second husband and I were divorced in our later years, after our children were grown. He lived, before his death in 1959, with our son, Delmas. Some of my grandchildren and all of my twelve great grandchildren live outside the state—in New York, Maryland, Michigan and Wisconsin.

It would be an interesting story to tell about the different families, or parts thereof, who have made the old farmhouse on Carr Creek their home at some time in my life-time—my step-children and their families; my grandchildren; my mother; nieces and nephews who were left without parents. It has indeed been a homeplace for many.

We were not rich in material goods, but we always had plenty to eat. I can still remember the empty spots remaining in my later life when I no longer had the cow to milk and chickens and pigs to feed and watch grow. I still like to boss the gardening when I can get one put out.

Except for a few visits with my children to Lexington, Louisville, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Virginia, and Niagara Falls (I got over into Canada, here), my entire life has been lived on Carr Creek or nearby. I'll be happy to remain there, if the Carr Creek dam does not replace us. Living in Hazard, I look forward to the visit to the farm as much as the tourist does to his vacation in the me.

SAY YOU SAW IT IN THE HERALD

Smokies. However, my children tell me that I've adjusted to town life very well—that I have become a "lady of leisure." I love the hot tub bath. I keep up with the news and hear "my good songs" over the radio. Each winter I piece one, or more "Trip-Around-the-World" quilts, and enjoy showing them to visitors. I look forward to telephone talks with my one remaining brother, Cullen, in Lexington and with my children and grandchildren. I like to trace kinship and enjoy visiting with my relatives. I frequently get interested in political campaigns, since I'm a democrat and believe in voting for my party. I attend my church, Little Samuel Baptist, in Lothair, and hardly a week goes by but that I get to visit the farm.

This is not the active life I once lead—of attending the community "singing school", of hunting chestnuts in the hills with my children; of riding sidesaddle to Blackey or Hindman; of running the set in my square dancing days; or of going in the jolt wagon to old Carr Church, which my grandmother helped establish. But it's a good life. I have no desire to be on one of the planes flying over Hazard daily going to Florida or a trip to the moon does not interest me.

Hazard's "Waite Hoyt Day" Held At Cincy's Crosley Field

Little Leaguers Meet Hoyt Also Cincinnati Manager And Reds' Top Players

By Oscar Combs

Everything that would make a day great was in place at Cincinnati's Crosley Field yesterday (with the exception of the outcome of the game) as Hazard Little Leaguers honored their famed sportscaster Waite Hoyt prior to the Cincinnati-San Francisco game.

A group of youngsters along with Mayor Willie Dawahare from Hazard presented a gift to Hoyt in appreciation of over 22 years of broadcasting the Reds' games.

The Little Leaguers also presented gifts to Hoyt's co-partner Claude Sullivan and to Red manager Fred Hutchinson.

The day was made happier when Waite Hoyt expressed to Mayor Dawahare that he will come to Hazard in late November or early December this year.

In the ballgame San Francisco's Willie Mays completely stole the contest as he collected two singles, a double, and a home run, his 38th of the year.

Mays Steals Two Bases
The fantastic Mays stole two bases and made two outstanding catches for the Giants.

In the very first inning the Giants broke loose for a big 4-0 lead off Redleg starter Johnny Tsitouris on back-to-back home runs by Mays and Willie McCovey after Duke Snider had walked to lead off the game. A base on balls to Jim Hart followed by a single by Tom Haller and a double by Hal Lanier produced a 4-0 lead.

Reds Start Comeback

Trying a first inning comeback the Reds got away to a fast start when Rose walked and lefty Mel Queen slashed a ball down the left field line for a run-producing double. Queen moved to third on a ground-out by Vada Pinson and then scored on a sacrifice fly by Frank Robinson to cut the Giant lead to 4-2.

A single by Mays, who then stole second, and McCovey's second double of the game gave San Francisco their fifth run and a 5-2 margin in the fourth.

Frank Robinson ignited a two run fourth for the Cincinnati Reds with a single. After Johnson popped up and Edwards lined out to Mays in centerfield Robinson stole second and came home on a single by Leo Cardenas. Cardenas went all the way to third when the ball got loose in the infield. Boros scored Cardenas with a double to right and cut the lead to 5-4.

Lefty Billy O'Dell was brought in for the Giants with a 20 count on pinch-hitter Gordy Coleman. Don Pavletich replaced Coleman and walked to put runners on first and second. O'Dell got out of the inning when Mays made a running catch of a long drive to right centerfield by Pete Rose.

Giants Lead 7-4

San Francisco made it 7-4 in the sixth on a walk to the pitcher O'Dell followed with singles by Jesus Alou and Mays and a Cincinnati error.

The Reds cut the Giant command to 7-5 in the bottom of the eighth when Frank Robinson stroked his 20th homer of the season over the centerfield wall.

THE COOLEST MCCOOL IS REDLEG . . . Billy McCool who has won three games and lost twice this year. He has become the big relief man for the Reds in the past month. The 19-year-old native of Indiana poses here with some of the Little Leaguers.

SPORTS CORNER

by Oscar Combs

Prior to the Reds-Giants game yesterday at Crosley Field Mayor Dawahare invited Waite Hoyt and Claude Sullivan to visit the new Magic Mountain when completed and ski here.

Hoyt remarked, "Me on skis, why I couldn't even get on them. I'm getting too old for that." Kidding he said, "You know, I'll be 89 in November."

When Pete Rose was asked yesterday if he smokes a cigar, he replied to Mayor Dawahare, "I'm too young to smoke." Rose, one of the real hustlers on the Cincinnati squad, runs to first base faster on walks than some men go on hits.

Cincinnati manager, Fred Hutchinson tried to force a grin on his face yesterday in the dugout prior to the game. But he said, "Frankly, Bill (Billy Thompson of Lexington Herald), I'm tired. I just don't have the get-up-and-go anymore."

(Hutch underwent treatment for cancer in January and it was said at the time to be lung cancer). "If they could only find it, I'm sure everything would be better. They at first thought it was my lungs, but now they don't believe it. My back hurts all of the time. I'm just going to keep plugging. Frankly, I'm just plugging along and that's about all." He has lost a considerable amount of weight.

Two Crosley Field policemen will long be remembered by the Hazard Little Leaguers. They are Carl Lanzetta, Jr. and Line Viar. Both were very considerate when the youngsters wanted their pictures made with some of the major leaguers. Lanzetta and Viar will be sent a Key to the City of Hazard according to the Mayor for their kindness in helping.

The Cincinnati Reds were very friendly in having their picture taken with the Hazard Little Leaguers before the game. Among them Johnny Edwards, Pete Rose and Gordy Coleman were extra nice.

As Billy Thompson once stated, "Gordy Coleman is one of the nicest guys in baseball." Although nice men don't always make the best players I must agree that Coleman is one of the friendliest men in baseball.

Gordy could also be one of the Reds' better players if they

Waite Hoyt told the Hazard Little Leaguers to keep working hard at baseball so they could become a major leaguer someday. Hoyt said, "These are mighty fine boys and I hope they all become major leaguers."

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

Improving Subsoil For Your New Lawn

Paul Keen — County Agricultural Agent

New lawns must be prepared with care if they are to be successful. If you plan to sow a bluegrass lawn this year, start preparations now, for August 15 to September 15 is the recommended time for sowing bluegrass seed.

Unless you have good topsoil for your lawn, special preparation will be needed. When good topsoil is not available, fresh sawdust, or similar organic materials often can be used to loosen heavy subsoil and prepare a good seedbed for the bluegrass. Fresh sawdust — that is, any sawdust which has had little weathering and thus had not decayed — is preferred for this purpose.

First, take a soil test to find out how much lime, phosphate and potash the soil needs. Then spread fresh sawdust on the soil to a depth of about 3 inches. Next, add 150 pounds of ammonium nitrate per 1,000 square feet on the 3-inch depth of sawdust (this is IN ADDITION to the nitrate called for by your soil test). Now, following your soil test, scatter the needed fertilizer — ammonium nitrate, superphosphate and potash. If a soil test is not run use 15 pounds complete fertilizer per 1,000 ft. in addition to ammonium nitrate. Finally, stir the fertilizer, sawdust and about 6 inches of soil with a rotary tiller; this makes a mixture about 9 inches deep.

If possible, apply water — using sprinklers — to settle this mixture after it is level. Thoroughly soaking the area settles the freshly — stirred soil better than using a lawn roller. A cultipacker is recommended if water under pressure is not available.

If you use partially-decayed sawdust instead of fresh sawdust, less of the extra ammonium nitrate will be needed. Decrease the amount of ammonium nitrate in proportion to how much the sawdust has decayed — you'll have to use your own judgment here. Be sure to add enough ammonium nitrate to prevent nitrogen deficiency. When using either decayed or fresh sawdust, a common fault is to underestimate the depth of the sawdust and to overestimate the amount of extra nitrate used. This results in new grass that looks stunted and yellow as it comes up.

If you have finished this advance preparation and the soil is well moistened by September 15, cultivate the surface of the lawn soil just enough to roughen it, remove any weeds which have grown since the soil and organic matter was mixed, and sow your bluegrass seed at once. However, unless you can do this BEFORE OCTOBER 1, the area — if sod is available — or seed it to annual ryegrass. The ryegrass will act as a cover crop to prevent severe erosion. If necessary, sow bluegrass seed next August or September.

Top Dressing Pastures During the Fall

If pastures haven't been top dressed this year, September is a good month for it. Run a soil test and then give the soil the fertilizer it needs.

Our Kentucky pastures and meadows could profitably use several times as much fertilizer as they get. We know that fertilizer helps us make more money when used on pasture and meadow crops.

Fertilizer will bring a return of 3 to 5 dollars for every dollar we put in fertilizer. We have made real money by using fertilizer on corn and tobacco.

It is time now for many Kentucky farmers to make additional money by using more fertilizer on meadow and pasture crops.

Curing and Storing Irish Potatoes

Irish potatoes should be dug and picked up from the field on the same day. Potatoes which are exposed to sunlight develop a green pigment (solanin) in the skin which has a bitter taste. In sufficient concentration, this pigment is toxic to human beings.

After harvest, wash potatoes to be stored to remove field soil, and air dry them. For maximum storage life, cure the tubers in a dark moist place at 60 to 75 degrees F.

By Edith Feltner

Mose Feltner and son, Kencil, and Mose's brother, Lee, and his son, Teddy, went to Buckhorn fishing. They had very good luck catching crappies.

We were sorry to hear about little Billy Eversole being in Mount Mary Hospital. He was stung by some kind of insect. We all wish him a speedy recovery.

We are all very pleased because Wiley Couch is working on our road cutting bushes and scraping it with heavy machinery. The Smith workers are dumping trash coal on the road which is also making it much better.

Aunt Nan Baker is home after spending several weeks in the hospital. She is slowly improving. All her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Herb and Zada Lewis' company has left. They are alone after ten or twelve weeks with Mr. Don Hicks, husband of Ann Hicks who passed away sometime ago, visited here over the weekend. Mr. Hicks is from Zenia, Ohio. He came to work on the cemetery where his wife is buried.

Mrs. R. C. Fields has returned to Lexington where she is taking nurses' training. Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Fields of Whitesburg spent the weekend with Mrs. Fields before she returned to Lexington.

Mrs. Jim Fields celebrated her 70th birthday in July. We all hope she has many, many more.

Well, school is getting ready to start. All the children seem to be very glad to start school again.

ALWAYS HOT

when it's heated the flameless way

The word flameless is the key. This tells you right away the water heater is fast and automatic, dependable and trouble-free, safe and clean. Electric water heaters install anywhere — in a closet, under the stairs, wherever most convenient.

Of course, when all's said and done, a water heater's only job is to provide hot water — all you want, when you want it. And when you buy electric you get a water heater you can count on to do just that because only electricity provides flameless water heating.

$25 TRADE-IN NOW! Your electric appliance dealer or plumber will now allow you $25 trade-in on your present water heater toward the purchase of a flameless electric model.

Save your family from frustrating hot water shortages. Save money, too. See your dealer or plumber without delay. Offer for a limited time only.
